Business and Volunteers for the Arts
Marketing the Arts Task Force

Background: Business Volunteers for the Arts is working cooperatively with 55 King County arts organizations to develop new audiences and increase access to the arts through an innovative program entitled "Art Bucks." This new program is intended to measurably expand the audience base for the arts among County residents, and encourage arts-goers who generally patronize one type of art form to try others. The program will achieve these objectives by raising public awareness of the arts and providing a cost-effective method for prospective audiences to sample the wide variety of arts offerings available in King County.

A proposal was presented by the Marketing the Arts Task Force to the King County Arts Commission on July 19, 1998, by:

Cheryl Swab, Executive Director, Business Volunteers for the Arts

Linda Prather, Director of Marketing, Seattle Opera

Terry Mume, Marketing Consultant

Karen Reed, Director of Communications, Walsh & Associates

The task force requests $55,000 from the King County Arts Commission to support the "Arts Bucks" vouchers as part of a county-wide plan to help build new audiences for the arts throughout the region.

Participating Sponsors:

Seattle Weekly, primary distribution, media sponsorship

Rite Aid Stores, secondary distribution

King County Libraries, secondary distribution

The Mountain, 103.7 FM, radio sponsorship

NBBJ Graphic Design, creative services

A/B Marketing and Advertising, creative services

The project is a collaboration between Business and Volunteers for the Arts and the Marketing the Arts Task Force.

Purpose and Timeline: On March 11, 1999, each issue of the Seattle Weekly will contain art coupons redeemable at over 55 arts organizations. The purpose of Arts Bucks is to encourage King County residents to try something new, with a financial incentive to purchase a reduced price ticket. Each coupon may be used at one arts organization per ticket.

ACTION ITEM: The King County Arts Commission recommends funding Business Volunteers for the Arts $55,000 for the "Arts Bucks" King County arts marketing campaign, from the 1999 Special Projects Program.

Arts Bucks may be redeemed towards the purchase of individual admissions, memberships and subscriptions.

- Patrons may use only one Arts Bucks coupon at any given arts organization.
- Only 5,000 Arts Bucks will be redeemed and it's first-come, first-served; once 5,000 coupons have been redeemed the offer will be over.
- The information on the back of the Arts Bucks coupon must be completed in order to receive the discount.
- Arts Bucks are not accepted at TicketMaster; they must be redeemed at each arts organization directly.
