1 AN ORDINANCE relating to the development of a youth
2 action plan that sets King County's priorities for serving 3 infants through young adults.

4 STATEMENT OF FACTS:

- 5 1. Since the 1960s, King County has participated in and funded programs
6 aimed at assisting children and youth. This work includes but is not 7 limited to federal fund distribution, as well as local programming and 8 funding.
- 9 2. Today, King County spends over seventy-five million dollars annually 10 on a wide range of programs that influence youth at all stages of 11 development from birth to young adult. These services and programs are 12 provided across King County government by several departments and 13 agencies. While most of these programs may be successful individually, it 14 is not clear whether they operate at a scale or collaboratively to make a 15 difference in improving overall outcomes for infants, children, youth and 16 young adults. There is no single point of accountability or unified policy 17 vision for coordinating the county's wide array of children and youth 18 services or programs.

- 19 3. King County's various departments and agencies contract with dozens 20 of community-based organizations and local nonprofit organizations that 21 work in collaboration with each other, the county and other governments 22 to serve children, youth and their families. The community-based 23 organizations and local nonprofit organizations include: geographically 24 focused organizations; organizations focused on serving specific cultural 25 and ethnic populations; organizations serving gay, lesbian and transgender 26 youth and young adults; and organizations targeting justice-involved or at-27 risk youth.
- 28 4. King County has adopted policies to directly guide or substantially 29 influence services and programs aimed at children and youth such as the 30 Juvenile Justice Operational Master Plan, the Human Services Framework
31 Policies and the Strategic Plan.
- 32 5. In 1992 King County established the children and family commission, 33 to define King County's mission, role and goals in provision of services to 34 children, youth and families. Ordinance 13811, adopted in 2000, further 35 defined the role and duties of the commission, noting that the commission 36 acted in an advisory capacity to the county executive, superior court and 37 the county council. The children and family commission was defunded 38 and dismantled in 2011, due in part to declining revenues and the county's 39 constrained fiscal environment.
- 40 6. The absence of the children and family commission has left a 41 significant gap in advising the executive, superior court and the county

42 council on matters related to children, youth, and families, especially as 43 related to building linkages between the county's service systems, 44 communities and schools. In a 2011 letter, the exiting commission 45 members stated that they were "deeply concerned with the county's lack of 46 transparency and accountability," especially around decision making 47 involving revenue historically supporting the work, outcomes and reports 48 of the children and family commission.

49 7. King County government has been developing and implementing a 50 performance and accountability system that focuses on results. The 51 purpose of this system is to improve King County government's ability to 52 measure how it is operating and performing, plan for the future and report 53 on its performance across all of the services delivered to citizens.

54 8. A cornerstone of that performance and accountability system is the 55 county's Strategic Plan, adopted by the council in July 2010 via Ordinance 56 16897. The plan calls for improved customer service, greater efficiency in 57 government and more robust partnerships across the region.

58 9. The King County Strategic Plan states that it embodies the priorities of 59 the residents of King County and the values of all of the separately-elected 60 officials in King County government. It furthers states that the purpose of 61 the action plan is to guide decisions in times of fiscal challenge, as well as 62 in future prosperity. The plan also represents King County government's 63 commitment to deliver county services that meet and exceed the standards

64 of professionalism, efficiency, quality and customer service as appropriate 65 to the current funding and policy environment.

66 10. The Strategic Plan contains specific goals related to the county's 67 functions and lines of business. For health and human services-related 68 areas, a health and human potential goal was established to "promote 69 opportunities for all communities and individuals to realize their full 70 potential."

71 11. Led by the committee to end homelessness, King County has been 72 actively working with a wide array of stakeholders, including nonprofit 73 community agencies, government leaders, private philanthropy and 74 homeless and formerly homeless young people, on a homeless youth and 75 young adult initiative. The purpose of the community-wide initiative is to 76 prevent and reduce youth and young adult homelessness in the county.

77 12. In November 2012, the council passed Motion 13768 requesting the 78 executive, in collaboration with the departments of public health and 79 community and human services and a community stakeholder panel 80 informed by local and national expertise, to develop and submit a plan for 81 council review and approval for an accountable and integrated system of 82 health, human services and community-based prevention in King County.

83 13. In January 2013, the executive convened a thirty-member community 84 stakeholder panel, referred to in this ordinance as "the health and human 85 services transformation panel," that included representatives from the 86 healthcare, human services and prevention sectors, the business

87 community, the geographic subregions of King County and local and 88 national experts in system transformation and innovation. The health and 89 human services transformation panel met between February and May 2013 90 to advise staff on key design elements of the transformation plan.

91 14. On June 26, 2013, the executive transmitted the requested 92 transformation plan. It recognizes various populations and diversity of 93 those in need of services throughout the county. The transformation plan 94 is individual, family and community centered, and takes a whole-person 95 approach where the preferences, strengths, needs and goals of individuals 96 and families come first. The transformation plan includes integration 97 efforts and interventions that occur at two levels: the individual and 98 family level, which assures that individuals and families can access an 99 array of person-centered, integrated, culturally competent services; and the 100 community level, which creates community-level improvements because 101 health is most deeply influenced by where people live, work, learn and 102 play. The transformation plan establishes a path to achieve an outcome-103 driven system where providers, consumers, funders and policy makers are 104 called to work together collectively and are mutually accountable through 105 contracts and compacts that include shared priorities, strategies and 106 measurements for assuring health and human service outcomes.

107 15. On June 19, 2013, King County council's committee of the whole 108 received a briefing entitled "implementation of the action plan goals," 109 where the executive outlined priorities related to specific goals of the 110 action plan. In that briefing, the executive identified a number of priorities 111 for 2015-2019 related to the health and human potential goal area.

112 16. In that briefing, the executive also stated that King County will 113 develop a youth agenda that defines outcomes, priorities, and actions for 114 pursuing the proposed vision that all infants reach adulthood healthy and 115 safe, academically or vocationally succeeding and socially and civically 116 engaged.

117 17. There is a need to provide continuing direction regarding the 118 development and implementation of a youth action plan to ensure that the 119 county's existing adopted policy goals, as included in the Juvenile Justice 120 Operational Master Plan, Human Services Framework Policy, Equity and 121 Social Justice Initiative and Strategic Plan, are reflected throughout the 122 process and that work undertaken by the county, such as the homeless 123 youth and young adult initiative and the health and human services 124 transformation plan, are taken into consideration. The development and 125 implementation of the youth action plan needs to be accomplished 126 transparently, collaboratively and strategically, in partnership with 127 children and youth serving community providers, consumers, 128 philanthropy, separately elected officials including the council, other 129 jurisdictions and school districts.

130 18. It is the policy of the county that citizens and policy makers be able to 131 measure the effectiveness of the investment of public funds.

132 19. The health and human services transformation plan has begun the 133 work of creating a more collaborative, transparent, effective health and 134 human services system in King County, using collective impact as a frame 135 for collaborative efforts, bringing partners together to develop shared 136 agreements on the process and outcome measures that lead to change, the 137 activities that demonstrate progress on outcomes and understanding of the 138 resources necessary to bring about change.

139 20. The framework of the transformation plan shares common attributes 140 with a number of current youth-focused community-based initiatives and a 141 focus on a common set of shared outcomes that are being developed 142 transparently, collaboratively and strategically in partnership with multiple 143 stakeholders and being driven by results achieved through collective 144 accountability and the use of data to align efforts across organizations. A 145 youth plan should build on these current efforts.
